Can you

I dare a man to say I'm too young

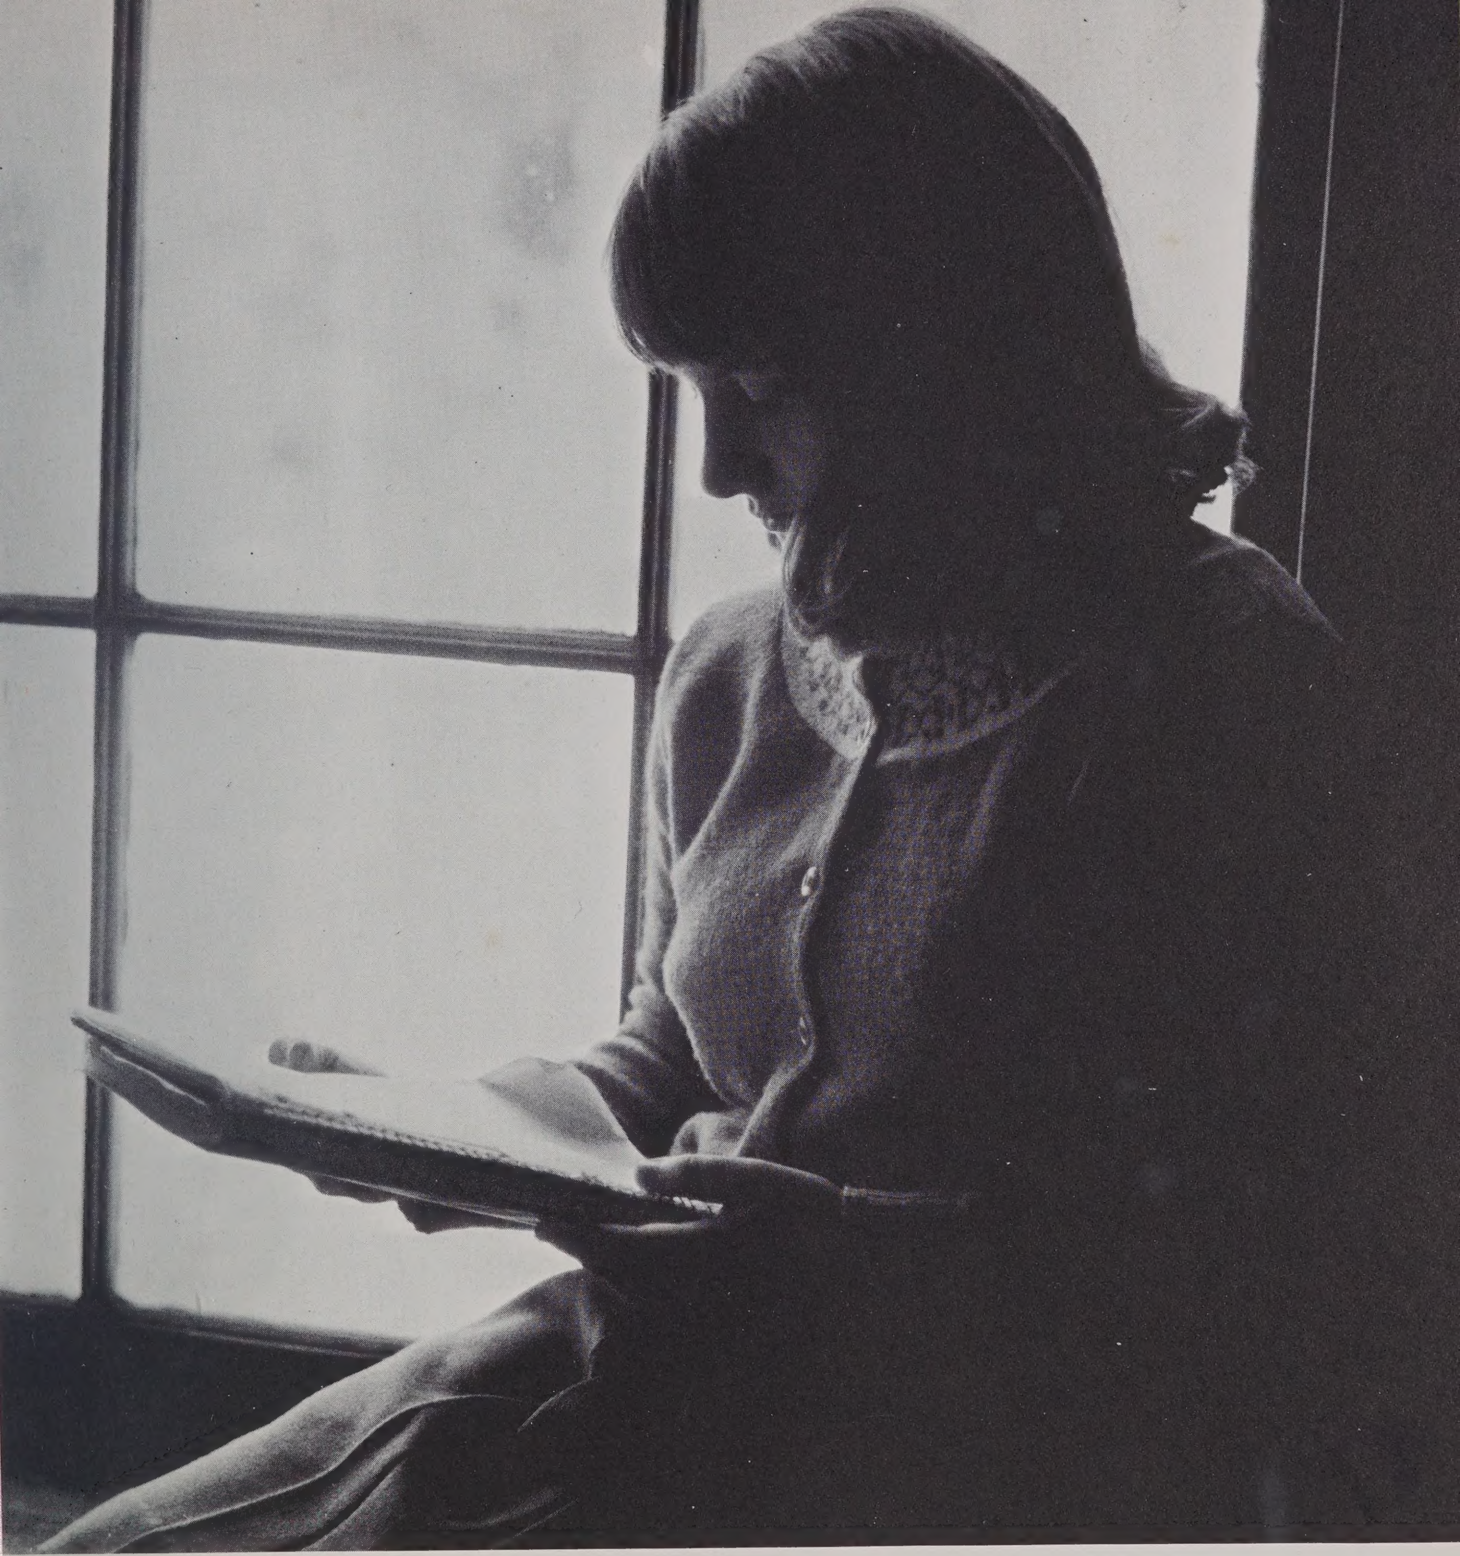
For I'm going to try for the sun



What is the best I can be?

More than sufficient -
best.
To drag myself
from day to day -
or feel the excitement
of building
tomorrow
is up to me.

What can I learn? More than the world gone before has known

Partners for Health
From School to School

More than any other than time can teach, but is it enough?
What can I give? Perhaps it is too soon to know,

so I offer only a promise - all I am in all I do.

To live this pledge
I give myself
from day to day
- Always.

Looking forward
my ideal clear.

Reach Out and Touch the SUN!

I am young. I have my all to give in years

yet unlived

as I

Reach Out And Touch The SUN!

What have I learned? Each individual must answer this question for himself. I believe learning is a process which begins long before the first grade and continues throughout life. For life to be lived I believe it takes the involvement of my whole self. To aim for the highest goal–to be the best–is truly to feel the excitement of building tomorrow. I must give myself to this task of building today what I hope to find on the tomorrow. My ideals must be clear as I look forward–reach out and touch the sun.

What have I Learned?

The editors hope this annual has aroused an inner desire for each individual to strive for the best. We hope it has asked you forceful questions–questions that you will strive to answer in a forward surge of building a more secure tomorrow. If you have in some way captured the intangible theme of this annual, our work is justified. We acknowledge with appreciation the part each of you played in editing the 1969 Chowan Chief.
